WILBUR CRAIG

Wooden Art In Motion. Artist, Wilbur Craig has a rare talent to create automobiles, airplanes, trains, motorcycles, bulldozers, and more from wood. His art, "Wooden Art In Motion," is created by sight, memory, or photograph, using only the tools necessary to shape the wood. No lathes, glue, nails, screws, string, wire.

All 100% wood with moving parts. Steering wheels turn wheels, engines (with moving pistons and crankshafts) can be dismantled and put back together, bulldozer and grader blades go up and down by pulling a lever. Wilbur's newest creation is a 6 foot long steam locomotive with over 8,000 parts, "BIG BOY." Actors, Chuck Norris, Ernest Borgnine and Tim Conway are just a few of the proud owners of Wilbur's art which has been featured in numerous newspapers, magazines and museums nationwide, and also, at the televised American Veteran Awards Show. Most recently, Wilbur won the grand prize at the New York/Los Angeles Art Festival 2004.
